January Saturday 21st 2006 (01h49) : Collapse of U.S. Economy Imminent

9 comment(s).

In its attempt to establish a world empire dominating every nation on the planet, the U.S. has exhausted its ability to finance the expansion and the country now faces imminent financial collapse. From all indications, it looks like 2006 will spell the end for America.

Consider these five important points:

- ▶ Point #1 The U.S., Great Britain and Israel are preparing to attack Iran. As it appears the main reason for invading Iraq was to stop it from selling oil in Euros, likewise Iran has plans to dump the dollar come March 2006.
  - ▶ Point #2 U.S. Treasury Secretary John Snow issued a warning recently that the U.S. Government is on the verge of collapse - as the statutory debt limit imposed by Congress of $8.184 trillion dollars would be reached in mid-February - the government would then be unable to continue its normal operations. Considering the current total U.S. debt stands at $8.162 trillion dollars, once the official debt ceiling ($8.184 trillion) is reached, the U.S. government's credit abroad (its borrowing power) is gone. Those countries (mainly China) who presently keep America afloat by holding U.S. Treasury Notes, will most likely no longer continue doing so.
  - ▶ Point #3 Bank Of America and Compass Bank managers (probably all other U.S. banks too) have been instructing their employees in the last few weeks on how to respond to customer demands in the event of a collapse of the U.S. economy - specifically telling the employees that only agents from the Department Of Homeland Security will have authority to decide what belongings customers may have from their safe deposit boxes - and that precious metals and other valuables will not be released to U.S. citizens. The bank employees have been strictly prohibited from revealing the banks' new "guidelines" to anyone. (however, employees have been talking to friends and family)
- The next time you visit your bank, ask them about it - then ask yourself, why is this information being kept secret from customers and the public - what's really going on?
- ▶ Point #4 FEMA has activated and is currently staffing its vast network of empty internment camps with armed military personnel - unknown to most Americans, these large federal facilities are strategically positioned across the U.S. landscape to "manage" the population in the event of a "terrorist" attack, a civilian uprising, large-scale dissent, or an insurrection against the government. Some of these razor-wired facilities have the capacity of detaining a million people.
  - ▶ Point #5 The Patriot Act and the US Senate's vote to ban habeas corpus (Nov 14th) - along with George W. Bush having signed executive orders giving him sole authority to impose martial law, suspend habeas corpus and ignore the Posse Comitatus Act, have together pretty much destroyed any notions of freedom and justice for Americans.

▶ Summary: The U.S. economy is broken, the United States is bankrupt - the unchecked spending by this administration, the illegally waged wars against Afghanistan and Iraq, the cost of unprecedented weapons and military build-up - have all contributed to an irreversible emergency which is threatening our nation's existence and our very lives.

Hospitals are closing, major corporations are declaring bankruptcy and/or moving their companies overseas, the monopolized news media spews nothing but lies, and our fearless leaders have turned out to be only ruthless criminals hell-bent on destabilizing our country and robbing us all.

Be aware - we stand at the threshold of total ruin - the international bankers and war profiteers care little for our lives and families - these demons worship money and all things vile and evil - they have very much to gain from war, misery, disease, famine, chaos and death (our deaths).

We are right on the edge - the Treasury is already overextended - the U. S. government cannot (and will not) care for its own citizens' needs, nor secure our borders against illegal aliens - plus, the whole "terrorist" thing is a cruel hoax perpetrated against a trusting citizenry - and only designed to instill fear and garner support for the genocide taking place in Iraq.

Should America (along with British & Israeli forces) launch a war against Iran, or another country, without yet paying for, or even recovering from the current losses in Iraq and elsewhere - the costs of such of an invasion will overwhelm an already crippled economy and push the U.S. over the edge into oblivion.

▶ Question: Considering the U.S. Treasury Notes that China currently holds (which keeps the U.S. economy going)...

Do you think China will continue to support a country's economy (the U. S.) whose military launches a nuclear strike against its neighbor (Iran) - thus delivering a blanket of radioactive fallout over western Chinese provinces - killing hundreds of thousands, if not millions of its citizens?

I think not.

Factoring in the aforementioned points of "preparation" engineered by U. S. authorities, I'd say there's a stinking rat in the woodpile ...can you smell it too?

A fear based economy.

Publication of Bin Laden tapes - the stock market goes down.
Bush farts - the stock market remains silent.

But serious, how can somebody who got any education put up with this?

Time for a change, but do it fast!

The approaching war with Iran

21st January 2006 - 06h32 - Posted by 68.***.12.***

by Ed Haas

In November 2000, Iraq stopped accepting U.S. dollars for its oil. Counted as a purely political move, Saddam Hussein switched the currency required to purchase Iraqi oil to the euro. Selling oil through the U.N. Oil for Food Program, Iraq converted all of its U.S. dollars in its U.N. account to the euro. Shortly thereafter, Iraq converted $10 billion in its U.N. reserve fund to the euro. By the end of 2000, Iraq had abandoned the U.S. dollar completely.

(and thus the invasion of Iraq)

In March 2006, Iran will take Iraq's switch to the petroeuro to new heights by launching a third oil exchange. The Iranians have developed a petroeuro system for oil trade which, when enacted, will once again threaten U.S. dollar supremacy far greater than Iraq's euro conversion. Called the Iran Oil Bourse, an exchange that only accepts the euro for oil sales would mean that the entire world could begin purchasing oil from any oil-producing nation with euros instead of dollars.

The Iranian plan isn't limited to purchasing one oil-producing country's oil with euros. Its plan will create a global alternative to the U.S. dollar. Come March 2006, the Iran Oil Bourse will further the momentum of OPEC to create an alternate currency for oil purchases worldwide. China, Russia, and the European Union are evaluating the Iranian plan to exchange oil for euros and giving the plan serious consideration.

Is it mere coincidence that the Fed will begin hiding M-3 the same month that Iran will launch its Iran Oil Bourse, or is there a direct threat to the stability of the U.S. dollar, the U.S. economy, and the U.S. standard of living? Are Americans being set up for a collapse in our economy that will make the Great Depression of the 1930's look like a bounced check?

If you cannot or will not make the value and stability of the U.S. currency of personal importance, if you are unwilling to demand from your elected officials, an immediate abolishment of the Federal Reserve Act of 1913 and the fiat money scheme that the banking cartel has used for nearly a century now to keep our government and our people in a state of perpetual debt, then you are faced with but two alternatives, abject poverty, or invading Iran.

The plans to invade Iran are unspoken, but unfolding before our very eyes.

As a casual observer of this, wouldn't Iran's interests be best served by firstly giving up its nuclear ambitions temporarily as this would preempt any justification for attacking Iran AND continue with its plans for the IOB dealing with Euros and/or Dollars and then continuing with it's nuclear ambitions in sync with the E3 and Russia and China.

An item or two of interest:

Back in the mid-early 1970's, Lynn LaRouche (yes, that famous one,) suggested and to a degree started advising the Arabs on forming a Arabdollar for oil exchange. His ideas got the ear of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and in 1975 the king was killed by an assassin. The killer turned out to be one of the king's nephews who had a girlfriend while he studied in the U.S. who was CIA. There were all kinds of speculations and data -- all of it was covered up over time and the story forgotten.

Item 2) The countries who are holding large amounts of dollars cannot readily dump them in any large quantities because it will make their remaining holdings worth less in propotion of the value lost in selling the dollars. They must more carefully. But in the long term the dollar will be worthless -- 9 out of 10 venues are dollar losses, while one is dollar parity in the medium term and that is war... Sigh.

It would be very interesting to hear if other Americans have also discovered how their banks and Homeland Security are discussing what to do with their personal property.

Keep in mind that many of today's bank deposit boxes have Diebold locks on them - Diebold, the same folks who delivered the presidency to the shrub.

I am no fan of the current U.S. administration, or of the U.S. tout court, but how do we know this is not just idle scaremongering? The information is not sourced. And why would the U.S. launch a war against Iran in the next few months if the government and economy of the country are going to collapse soon? How on earth can a country whose government and economy has collapsed carry out a war (thousands of miles away)? This article doesn't make a lot of sense to me.

To the contrary, there are literally thousands of source articles which go into great depth about the impending attack on Iran - you must devote a little time finding/reading them.

I know an invasion of Iran sounds scary, insane even - still, we must face the prospect of this invasion and the realities of its consequences.

You will never hear the real reason for attacking Iran - more than likely, just as the self-inflicted wound of 911 was used to create public support for the genocide in Iraq, another "terrorist" event will precede war against Iran.

In addition to shoring up the U.S. dollar (at the expense of countless innocent lives), I can think of many reasons the U.S., Great Britain and Israel want to attack Iran. As with Iraq and the whole region in general, some of those reasons are:

- ▶ assist Israel in its Holy war against Islamic nations in the middle east
- ▶ secure another permanent U.S. military base in the region
- ▶ insure a conduit for George Herbert Walker Bush, Sr.'s ongoing illicit narcotics trafficking
- ▶ rob the natural and cultural wealth of Iran
- ▶ develop & refine population control tactics to eventually be used against Americans

- ▶ test biological and chemical weapons on real people (including U.S. troops)
- ▶ control a vast field of the world's accessible oil reserves
- ▶ create and maintain a market for arms manufacture and sales
- ▶ charge U.S. tax payers billions for more "work" contracts that are never honored
- ▶ continue to kill & cripple America's young men/women ...leaving the country defenseless against NATO troops once Bush declares martial law and the Constitution is suspended

It's no secret how the Bush administration uses every opportunity within the controlled media to launch dismissals of any facts and its agents go to great lengths to avoid telling the public the truth and accepting any responsibility.

Americans have been duped by a criminal, fascist regime intent on dividing further the gap between the haves & the have-nots, the ultra wealthy and the poor. Since Americans won't get off their fat lazy asses and assemble in unity against these traitors who've seized control of the country, the nation's imminent destruction is now at hand.

Never kid yourself, the international banking community is a full partner in a British/Israeli plan to destabilize and destroy the U.S. - they will do everything in their power to avoid diverting funds and resources away from their military objectives in the Middle East.

Besides, the ultimate goal is to DESTROY the United States anyway - in order for the elite to move more quickly towards their globalist agenda - "they" win either way.

Don't ask me who "they" are specifically, however, I think it's more than apparent that whoever the entity is, they are fully committed to enslaving the sum of mankind everywhere, even if they have to poison the entire world in the process.

"With the Voice of the Dragon"

Inasmuch as Jesus is referred to as "the Lamb"--who taught the 'resurrection' as a Doctrine of 'Rebirth', and who stated that Satan is the "father of lies" (John 8:44)--the beast with 'two horns like a lamb (sic) that speaks with the voice of the dragon' (the voice of Satan, the voice of the media--Revelations 13:11) is a symbol for Christianity; which, like Judaism and Islam, teaches, instead, that the resurrection' is the physical raising of a dead body from the grave.

But lambs do not have 'two horns'.

Goats have two horns.

Thus, Christianity is the Teaching of Jesus to the same extent that 'lambs have two horns'. And, thus, the 'separation of the sheep from the goats' (Matthew 25:33) refers to the separation between those who believe the Doctrine of the 'resurrection' as taught by Isaiah, Jeremiah, Jesus and Mohammed as opposed to those who believe the doctrine of a physical 'resurrection' from the grave.

Those who believe that the 'resurrection' is a Doctrine of 'Rebirth' are on the 'right hand', while those who believe that the 'resurrection' is not a Doctrine of 'Rebirth' are on the 'left hand'. (See, also, the parallel Revelations in the Koran.)

In addition, the "whore of Babylon" was, first of all, a symbol for, especially, the economic power of Rome (the city built on seven hills).

Theologically, the "whore of Babylon" refers to the fundamental errors of Jewish, Christian and Muslim theology concerning the 'resurrection', which constitute the foundation of the current international economic system.

Economically, the "whore of Babylon" can only refer to the United States and its economic allies; primarily Christian Europe and other countries whose economies are tied very directly to the economy of the United States (Japan and South Korea, for example).

Translation: the initiation of a war with Iran will result in the collapse of the international economic system as described in Revelations 18 (6+6 +6).
