Terror In The US? - Back To The Old Shell Game

By Paul Howard

5-27-4

Back to the old shell game - or back to the land of make-believe.

Only this time, the consequences of not "following the ball" for the American people and their way of life are fatal. In the land of make-believe, you can make it all up as you go.

The Bush administration has come out full force this week with what they claim are mountains of intelligence that claim Al Queda is determined to hit America before the elections in a massive attack.

They claim the intelligence is stronger than anything since 911.

Yet they refuse to move the terror alert color coding off "yellow" and they say they have no idea what will be hit, though it will be "big", and they have no idea where the terrorists are, where they will hit or when.

Some of their big intelligence? Al Queda members may be moving around with their families to appear normal. Al Queda may be recruiting white people or others who "look" European.

Could this be a way of trying to cover the fact that Israeli reservist teams have been found in this country working for "moving companies", yet they keep getting arrested around US nuclear facilities? And why do these people keep getting arrested, only to have the Feds step in to make sure they are released?

We are going to get attacked again.

The Neo-cons have several countries to still attack in their plan to save the world for Pax Americana - like Iran, Syria, North Korea. If they have to attack America again, using the CIA-created Al Queda, or Israeli agents posing as Al Queda, they certainly will.

If it worked once, why not attack America again and blame it on the "brown guys"?

This is just the continued warpath drumbeat played by this Administration in an effort to cover their collective "behinds" when THEY attack America in order to try to get some support - any support - for President Bush before the election - or more likely - to use the "massive" attack as a pretext to cancel the elections altogether under provisions of the Patriot Act.

They have been leaking this plan and their intentions for months.

In a NEWSMAX interview on November 21, 2003, General Tommy Franks says that if the United States is hit with a weapon of mass destruction that inflicts large casualties, the Constitution will likely be discarded in favor of a military form of government. "It means the potential of a weapon of mass destruction that causes our population to question our own Constitution"

The same theme was touched on in the Washington Post (11/23/03) by a member of one of the Illuminati "think tanks", the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The author, David J. Rothkopf, outlined the possibility of a terrorist campaign of suicide bombings during the election campaign that leads to a full-scale military mobilization.

"Recently, I co-chaired a meeting of more than 200 senior business and government executives, many of whom are specialists in security and terrorism related issues. Almost three-quarters of them said it was likely the United States would see a major terrorist strike before the end of 2004. A similar number predicted that the assault would be greater than those of 9/11 and might well involve weapons of mass destruction. It was the sense of the group that such an attack was likely to generate additional support for President Bush."

Political games before elections, dealing with the lives of Americans, is nothing new to the Bushes. Remember the "October Surprise" of 1980? When terminated CIA Director George Bush Sr went to Iran and asked our enemy to keep our hostages until after the election so that he and Reagan could get elected in exchange for weapons?

In a column published December 31, 2003, New York Times columnist William Safire blandly predicted that the "October surprise" for the 2004 election will be "a major terror attack in the US."

In the "Washington Whispers" section of this week's US News & World Report, columnist Paul Bedard reports: "White House officials say they've got a 'working premise' about terrorism and the presidential election: It's going to happen."

Bedard continues by noting, "most Bushies think the nation would rally around the president." He quotes another official who has been involved in recent terrorism response drills: "I can tell you one thing, we won't be like Spain."

In a piece published May 20 entitled "Beware of any stretch-run surprises," Wall Street Journal columnist Albert Hunt writes that the November elections could hinge on "unanticipated events." First on the list of such events is a terrorist attack.

Hunt notes: "The Bush administration and outside terrorist experts repeatedly have cautioned that another attack on the homeland is likely".

Hunt quotes Charles Black-a Republican strategist and close confidante of President George W. Bush-as stating that "my instinct is there likely will be a rally around the incumbent effect" in the event of another attack.

Fox News' ultra right-wing moron Sean Hannity stated: "If we are attacked before our election like Spain was, I am not so sure that we should go ahead with the election," he went on saying. "We had better make plans now because it's going to happen."

Can you think of any reason why right-wing lunatics like Rush Limbaugh, Sean Hannity and David Brooks are all beating the same drum?

As former Bush Administration White House insider Richard Clarke said, "[There are] dozens of people, in the White House. . . writing talking points, calling up conservative columnists, calling up talk radio hosts, telling them what to say. It's interesting. All the talk radio people, the right wing talk radio people across the country, saying the exact same thing, exactly the same words."

They keep saying it and saying it - planting in the people's mind - so that when it happens - when THEY do it and blame it on Al Queda - Bush gets the brownie points and the election.

The evil Satanists in the Bush administration are trying to "spin" this whole scenario counter-clockwise - to try and make it look like the "evil terrorists" are going to strike to get the American people to turn on Bush right before the election and elect Kerry.

In fact, they have planned this "new attack against America" for some time, realizing that Bush's numbers are plummeting because of the continued lies concerning 911, Iraq and everything else.

They keep throwing up "Spain" and the terrorist attacks there, saying that Al Queda pulled those off to get a change in the Spanish Government. What BS.

Remember after the bombing? The US and Britain came out immediately and told Spain to blame Al Queda. Britain even had one of their MI6 "operatives" claim responsibility from London in the name of Al Queda (the same MI6 operation that publicly released the Berg video IN LONDON).

How desperate are these Satanists? The US arrested a man from Portland, Oregon saying that he had ties to Al Queda and that his fingerprint was found by Spanish authorities on the bombing material in what one FBI official later described as "an absolutely incontrovertible match".

Using the power granted them by the PATRIOT Act, FBI agents broke into the house of Brandon Mayfield and conducted a search in his absence, rifling through his kids' Spanish homework, and leaving the doors double-bolted - which immediately alerted the Mayfield family that someone had been on the premises. Mayfield called 911 when it happened a second time, and he found a man's footprint on the rug. They couldn't pick up the phone without hearing an odd clicking.

When the FBI finally swooped down on the Mayfields' home in a quiet suburb of Portland, Oregon, they burst in the door, trashed the place, and trundled him off in handcuffs without a word. He was jailed for weeks without charges. Ashcroft's goons told the media he was being held as a "material witness" to the Madrid bombings.

By mid-April, the Spanish authorities were saying there was no trace of Mayfield's presence in their country, and also disagreed with the FBI's contention that the prints found on a detonator bag matched Mayfield's at all.

The government finally let Mayfield go, but not until John Ashcroft's Justice Department had done everything to keep him jailed, defenseless, and smeared as a "terrorist" in the eyes of the world.

Since he had nothing to do with Al Queda, and they invented a complete lying story - what were his real crimes against humanity? The FBI pointed to Mayfield's attendance at a local mosque, and his advertising his legal services in a publication owned by a man suspected to have links to terrorism".

Oh, I see. He attended a mosque and bought an add in a paper owned by someone who might know someone who might have links to terrorism. This is YOUR justice department people - and NEVER forget what they TRIED LIKE HELL to frame him for.

As Kent Mayfield, Brandon's brother, put it: "I think the reason they are holding him is because he is of the Muslim faith and because he is not super happy with the Bush administration. So if that's a crime, well you can burn half of us."

And Burn us they will. Even if they have to invent stories and try to get foreign governments to go along with it.

The only problem with the whole thing is that it was all a COMPLETE lie. Spain was having none of it. Unlike America and Britain, their intelligence service was not going to turn against their newly elected President and the people of Spain to "invent" a story of Al Queda participation, nor railroad people who had no ties to Al Queda anyway.

The truth is that the people of Spain threw out their government because they were tired of their President backing the illegal wars and lies of George W. Bush, just like the rest of the planet is tired of it.

There were absolutely NO ties between the Spain bombing and Al Queda.

Spain has said the operation is identical to ones carried previously by the Basque Separatist group ETA and that analysis determined the explosive is a type of dynamite called ECO, manufactured in Spain. No Al Queda - no international plot - nothing.

Yet the Bush Administration keeps chanting that Al Queda did it and that Al Queda is going to hit us before the election because they learned that it works, just like it did when they hit Spain.

LIES, LIES, LIES. And why keep doing it, unless you are playing a psychological game and unless you are following a script for something planned that is truly heinous?

And why after bazillions of dollars spent by Homeland Security, the FBI and CIA, are we still unable to stop the massive attack that's coming - or why are we still unable even to figure out who, what, when or where?

Obviously, if we KNOW there is going to be an attack and we have so much intelligence, as they have shouted all week, obviously we are buttoning down the hatches, right?

So just how serious is Homeland Security about protecting the United States? Not at all.

CBS News reported this week (5/25) that precious taxpayer dollars that were supposed to go for Homeland Security efforts like protecting train stations and other public transportation (buses) and for training police and fire fighters has quietly gone to pay for security at some of the richest oil corporations in the world. You think I'm joking?

Citgo made a $439 million profit but took $19.4 million in Homeland Security monies. ConocoPhillips received nearly $10.8 million of your tax dollars under Homeland Security when they reported profits of 4.7 Billion. ChevronTexaco netted a whopping 7.2 billion profit but still got over $7.3 million in government handouts.

What? Oil companies can't pay for their own security - even after netting billions of dollars of profits? Even as they're raping us even now at the pumps?

So just who is Homeland Security protecting? Why is America going unprotected while Bush's oil buddies get richer and richer off of government contracts here and abroad, even raiding our Homeland Security budget? Do you think maybe, just maybe, that if they were really concerned about a terrorist attack, they might spend the money protecting borders?

And it just gets worse from there. Do you remember the public outcry when they tried to slip through the Total Information Awareness program, headed by Admiral John Poindexter of Iran-Contra fame, to use the military to spy on Americans?

Supposedly, Congress shut it down because the public would have none of it. It was in direct violation of Posse Comitatus laws, forbidding the US military from performing domestic police functions.

But there is a way around it. A terrorist attack in which "martial law" had to be called. In the event of martial law, the Posse Comitatus Act of 1878, which has already been largely gutted by the USA Patriot Act and other Bush actions, would cease to exist.

Posse Comitatus has, for over 100 years, served as an important criminal law safeguard proscribing the use of the military to "execute the laws," except where expressly authorized by the Constitution or by Congress.

With the abrogation of Posse Comitatus and the imposition of martial law, the military would, as it did during post-Civil War Reconstruction in the South, be able to arrest and detain civilians for any flimsy reason. Iraq has shown us how that turns out.

Couple that with the tossing out of Constitutional Rights, rights to a lawyer, rights to have charges preferred, rights to a trial by jury - and you can see what is coming NOW. Ask the poor man in Oregon.

The "illuminated ones" in the Bush Administration continue to show they care NOTHING for the laws of this country nor the authority of Congress. They have already side-stepped Posse Comitatus by creating new "mini-departments" within the military that carry out the same illegal functions that the Information Awareness Office was going to.

For instance, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld played God and expanded the mission of the Counterintelligence Field Activity (CIFA), which was established only to protect "critical infrastructure." What is their new authorization? To maintain "a domestic law enforcement database that includes information related to potential terrorist threats directed against the Department of Defense."

According to the LA Times, CIFA has been given a domestic "data mining" mission to "figure out a way to process massive sets of public records, intercepted communications, credit card accounts, etc., to find 'actionable intelligence.'"

There's more, like the assigning of military special agents to 56 FBI Joint Terrorism Task Force operations at FBI field offices, investigating potential threats to the military in local communities inside the US.

This is the US military being turned against us, turned into some form of Nazi SS, even after Congress dismantled this administration's attempt to do this under the Total Information Awareness Program.

Phantom terrorists, phantom threats, an extinguished Constitution and Nazi troops. Say goodbye America. I tried and tried to warn you to act - to help. It will be over very soon.

And just like 911, the Nazi perpetrators have told you so beforehand.

We are all returning to the land of make-believe. Just ask the poor man from Portland.
